Formaldehyde Bibliography

Compiled by:
Frank R. Demer, CIH, CSP, Health Safety Officer, Risk Management Services,
University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ

&
Rebecca E. Fisher, PhD, Assistant Professor, Department of Basic Medical Sciences,
University of Arizona College of Medicine-Phoenix, Phoenix, AZ
June 2011

Table of Contents:
I. Cancer Risks
II. Effects on Fetal and Female Reproductive Health
III. Effects on Male Reproductive Health
IV. Signs and Symptoms of Exposures
V. Exposure Levels
VI. Exposure Controls
VII. General Ventilation
VIII. Local Exhaust
IX. Formaldehyde Alternatives
(Note: References may appear under multiple headings)

I. Cancer Risks:

II. Effects on Fetal and Female Reproductive Health:

Organization of Teratology Information Specialists: http://www.otispregnancy.org/
A non-profit organization made up of individual services throughout North America. Dedicated to providing evidence-based, clinical information to patients and health care professionals about exposures during pregnancy and lactation.

III. Effects on Male Reproductive Health:

IV. Signs and Symptoms of Exposure:

V. Exposure Levels:

VI. Exposure Controls:

VII. General Ventilation:

VIII. Local Exhaust:

IX. Formaldehyde Minimization/Alternatives/Neutralizers:

